

Zakiy T. Manigo

(908)-230-6948 | zakiymanigo@gmail.com | Metropolitan Area | linkedin.com/in/zakiymanigo

Education

|                                                                                                                                                                                     |                                                 |
|-------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|-------------------------------------------------|
| Columbia UniversityFu Foundation School of Engineering and Applied ScienceBachelor of Science in Computer Engineering• 2024 Fast Pitch, SEAS Honors, NSBE | New York, NYClass of May 2025 |
| St. Lawrence UniversityEngineering Combined ProgramBachelor of Science in Mathematics• Dean's List 2021, Dean's List 2022                                 | Canton, NYClass of May 2024   |

Relevant Experience

|                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                      |                                                                    |
|------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|--------------------------------------------------------------------|
| Head Digital Strategy &amp; Development AssociateBariatric Associates• Integrated 5+ workflows and built 2 full-stack prototypes, streamlining data collection and testing biometric wearable devices to enhance patient monitoring and data-driven insights.• Automated operations across Microsoft 365, Google Apps Script, Jotform Suite, and Bariatrix360, reducing manual workload by 30%+.• Built 3+ custom webhooks and routing algorithms to integrate biometric wearables with clinical systems, enabling seamless data flow and actionable health awareness.• Conducted research on 25+ competitors, shaping B2B and B2C roadmaps to guide leadership strategy. | Livingston, NJHybridMay 2025-Present  |
| Founder &amp; CEOFITD LLC• Founded and launched an AI-powered fashion app that curates outfits and connects users with small clothing brands, led the beta launch, brand outreach, and early community growth.• Built scalable Firestore data pipelines with AI integrations in Swift, while overseeing workflows and guiding a summer intern to enhance outfit generation and brand discovery.                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                   | New York, NYRemoteJan 2023-Present    |
| Database Engineer InternCity of Elizabeth• Managed MongoDB and Excel databases for 500+ users while automating reporting pipelines to improve collaboration, storage, and decision-making efficiency.• Optimized cross-department data flow to strengthen knowledge-sharing networks while supporting digital initiatives that modernized record-keeping and boosted operational efficiency.                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                      | Elizabeth, NJHybridMay 2024-Sept 2024 |
| Innovation, Design, Entrepreneurship InternColumbia University IDE• Managed and enhanced IDE's WordPress website while collaborating with faculty and students to boost engagement and strengthen communication across Columbia's engineering community.• Designed and implemented UI/UX improvements for the program's platform while coordinating events and workshops that supported innovation and entrepreneurship.                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                          | New York, NYHybridSept 2023-May 2024  |

Study Abroad

|                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                     |                                                           |
|-----------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|-----------------------------------------------------------|
| James Cook UniversityCollege of Science and EngineeringStudied abroad in Australia, gaining cultural perspective and independence while strengthening skills in data mining, probability, and human rights; published a Weave News article on shark and ray conservation, highlighting global awareness and communication abilities. | Townsville, AustraliaJuly 2022-Nov 2022 |
|-----------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|-----------------------------------------------------------|

|                                                                                                                                                                                                                                       |  |
|---------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|--|
| Technical Skills: Python, Java, C++, Swift, SQL, full-stack development, ServiceNow, workflow automation, API & database integration, AI/ML, data analysis, project management, problem-solving, leadership, and collaboration |  |
| Interests/Hobbies: Fitness, sports (former D3 linebacker), literature, stock trading, cryptocurrency trading, 3-D graphics, app development, UI/UX building, Presbyterian member                                               |  |